

Iodine Fuming Supplies

Disposable Iodine Fumettes™

Latent prints easily absorb iodine vapors. That's why it makes sense to use our pre-loaded, disposable iodine Fumettes™, which can process both horizontal (middle picture) and vertical surfaces (right picture). Our Fumettes™ are made of plastic and come with 1.5 gram iodine crystal ampoules already installed. They won't leak and they're safe for storing or transporting. Disposable and economical, use our Fumettes™ and then throw them away! Great for processing small objects. You're in control of the whole process. Fumettes™ come in a package of five.

Iodine Print Enhancers

As a general rule, you should always photograph latent prints after you've fumed them with iodine. However, if a camera isn't available, you can rely on our print enhancers to effectively preserve the print. Each enhancer is pre-assembled in a crushable ampoule and ready to use. Available in a package of six.
